

Bringing German back to USA classroom

Angela Jakeway
UNC at Charlotte

German taught at K-12

If your area has immersion schools than make a field trip with your students to motivate them to learn a Foreign Language/German

Go and visit the closest Universities Language department and show the K-12 students the future.

Anxiety and the question why?

Learning a foreign language is helping you to get better test results in MAT, GRE and GMAT

Work/Job/Success
As an example in the Carolinas are 350 German company who want to hire a person who knows the culture and the language of Germany

Students teach Students

Learning from other students motivates your students. Have a day where “visiting student” are coming and talking about the positive experience.

Professional Guest Speakers

Saertex

BMW

Steag

Bosch-Rexroth

Luetze

Motivating your students with professional guest speakers from area
German companies

Company Tours

Go and take your students on a field trip. Around Charlotte, the companies are always welcoming a group of interested students

Scholarships

German companies want the language to grow in the USA. Ask for scholarship money. The German Federal Government also give money to raise more German language awareness in the USA

<http://germanfoundation.com/>

http://www.germany.info/Vertretung/usa/en/09\_\_Language\_\_Education/00/Language-and-Education.html

AmCham
GERMANY

Access Your Global Network

Send your students to work in the summer in Germany.
Check out <http://www.amcham.de/>

Member Universities:

Emory University, Georgia State University, Georgia Tech University, Kennesaw State University, University of North Georgia, UNC Charlotte, Columbus State University, University of Georgia, Piedmont College, UNC Chapel Hill and Washington & Lee University.

Develop New Courses/ Classes

- Why do we learn about culture?
  - Include movies and music
  - Have a German breakfast
- Have a Christmas song singing
- Share your personal experiences!

Learning by doing

Have your students look up German companies in your area. Let them present the findings to the class.

- Learning starts when you get out of your comfort zone.
- Presenting in front of a group is an important task
- Research companies and share your knowledge

The End

Angela Jakeway
Lecturer German
German Coordinator
UNC at Charlotte, NC
ajakeway@uncc.edu